MONTPELIER HIGH SCHOOL

MONTPELIER, VERMONT

THIRTIETH ANNIVERSARY

January 16, 1956 was a special day for Montpelier High School. This day, thirty years ago marked the opening of M.H.S. The symbol for the thirtieth anniversary is the pearl. Therefore, in recognition of our school's anniversary and its symbol, we decided that our theme had to be pearls. Throughout the year-book, you will see pearls in many different varieties, sizes, and shapes. At any rate, the pearl will be the focal point in this year's Record and the thirtieth anniversary of this school.

The pearl is a symbol not only of the thirtieth anniversary, but also signifies wisdom, beauty, youth, innocence, and wealth among others. Known as the "aristocrat of gems," the pearl has the highest personal vibration of any jewel. Indeed, a lover of pearls, traditionally, is a person of sensitivity and culture.

The formation of the pearl is a delicate process, taking place only in oysters and clams. A small foreign body enters the shell, sets up irritation within the host, causing layers and layers of shell material exactly like the outer shell to be formed. From these layers a pearl emerges.

The most beautiful of all pearls is the "La Peregrina" (the Wanderer). This lovely pearl did wander halfway around the world, until it ended up in the hands of actor Richard Burton who bought it for his wife Elizabeth Taylor, in 1969 as a birthday gift.

Congratulations to Montpelier High School and to the class of 1986.

FALL FLOWER FIELD FROLIC

The Fall Flower Field Frolic is an annual event of the Biology II classes. Planned and conducted by Miss Carolyn Silsby. The classes take off for the outdoors to study the names and the types of flowers by the color, the leaves and the parts of the plant. She brings the classes to the front and the back lawns of the high school. The students then must find and identify each flower tha has been assigned. She replies with an enthusiastic ooh! or with a disconcerting shake of the head. Towards the end of the frolic she takes the classes around the fields for a pop quiz. When the class has ended she takes the most interesting flowers back inside to be pressed and kept for further study.

Lorraine Groleau and Ms. Silsby consulting on some flowers.

Staci Asbell looking for more flowers.

Mark Gilbertson and Terri Suskin follow Hannah Miller's lead.

Roger Columbo questions Amy Carpenter's choice of flowers.

Miss Silsby look. "Yes, Betty that is a fingernail but that has nothing to do with Bio."

DEDICATION

This thirtieth anniversary issue of the Montpelier Record is dedicated to a very special person who has touched the lives of a great number of students over these years.

His tremendous personality combined with a great compassion, understanding, and love has set a fitting example for all people to follow.

*For all that he has done, and for all that he represents, it is with deep appreciation and feeling that we dedicate the 1986 Record to our friend, teacher, and coach, Mr. George D. Brown.

Meet The New

MHS Coach

George D. Brown, who while at Syracuse University, led the nation in point after touchdown scoring in 1946, arrived in this city last week to assume his duties as head coach at Montpelier High school.

Appointed to the head coaching post by the school board last spring, the highly rated athlete began workouts at the recreation field this week in preparation for the 1952 football season, now less than a month away.

A native of White Plains, N.Y., Brown moved with his family to Scarsdale, N. Y., at an early age and was a letterman in football, basketball and track at Scarsdale High school.

Following his high school graduation in 1941, he attended Temple University for one year, playing freshman football, basketball and track. During this period, he added hockey to his athletic accomplishments, playing in a nearby amateur loop.

His studies interrupted by the war, he entered the Air Force in 1943, and while stationed at Maxwell Field, Alabama, played with many professional and collegiate stars on the base football team.

Honorably discharged in February, 1946, he entered Syracuse University in the fall, where he played on the defensive platoon of the Orangemen eleven and served as their point after touchdown expert.

In 1946, his best season, he converted 20 out of 21 points after touchdown attempts.

In his three year career at Syracuse he compiled the enviable record of 39 conversions out of 42 attempts, playing under "Ribs" Baysinger and "Biggie" Munn, both of whom have highly recommended Brown for his general ability and keen defensive mind.

FRESHMEN WELCOME

October 18 was the annual freshman orientation—more commonly known to seniors as initiation. The seniors welcomed the freshmen by dressing them up in many kinds of creative costumes. This year's theme was movies. Many movies, from the "Wizard of Oz" to "Purple Rain" were portrayed. The freshmen were dressed in the auditorium and paraded around the school with their seniors. Then, they were all herded into the gymnasium where they entertained the entire student body by singing the school song almost to perfection.

PEARLS OF YESTERYEAR

PEARLS FROM HEAVEN

The Junior Prom was held this year on May 11, 1985 at the National Life Insurance Company.

The queen was Allison Thurston, and her maids were Merri Lipman, Stacey Johnston, Steph Kehoe, and Karen Hickory.

The theme of the Prom was Heaven, which is very fitting for our yearbook theme, Pearls. In past history, dew falling from Heaven was sometimes referred to as pearls from Heaven.

Appropriately, the decorations included white balloons, looking like pearls suspended from the heavens of the prom hall.

Mike Marsh and Georgia Goodrich say "Take the picture, we've been holding this pose long enough!"

Merri Lipman, Chris Magnan, Roger Columbo, and Steph Kehoe dance to the theme song "Heaven".

Kara Miller tells Ray Labbe to stop stepping on her dress.

Chris Brown sheepishly pins the corsage on Liz Barker.

Craig Marineau and Stacey Johnston take their proper place in the march.

Lori Brown and David Alexander lead the Grand March.

Merri Lipman and Chris Magnan are all smiles.

Congratulations, Seniors, on having achieved yet another level, another rung on the ladder whose top extends beyond your present vision. As dramatic, exciting, and satisfying as graduation from high school is, I trust it will be followed by more challenges, opportunities, and achievements which will be just as gratifying to you.

For the past twelve or thirteen years, you have been learning a lot of facts and figures and, hopefully, how to apply them in your life. What you do with your acquired knowledge will be the real final exam. I am reminded of the proverb which says: Success is getting what you want; happiness is wanting what you get. Your teachers and I hope that you will find success and happiness in all that you do.

The 1985 Solons football team completed its first year in Division II this past season. The team faced many strong Division I opponents as well, making for a tough season. The players knew it would be a long season when the Solons lost the home opener to St. Johnsbury in overtime. Their first victory did not come until a home game versus North Country, where the Solons blew the Falcons away 45-0. It seemed to be a perfect performance in almost every aspect. One of the best games came against Middlebury on their home turf. The Solons played this Division I foe tough throughout the whole game but the difference was two costly fumbles near the end-zones. The Solons' only other win was the homecoming game against Lyndon Institute. Chuck Flanders gave the Solons the lead from the opening kickoff for an 80-yard touchdown. Lyndon never came back after this quick strike from the Solons. The Solons were led by senior co-captains Bob Browning and Todd Eardensohn. Many juniors saw a lot of playing time, and so will have experience for next year's team. The graduating seniors are: Bill Marcellus, Todd Eardensohn, Chris Magnan, Bob Browning, Rich "Fowl" Rowell, Art Montague, Chuck Flanders, Dave Cody, Roger Colombo, Joel Nardo, Rory Welch, Jim Paul, Dave Halford, Bob McLeod, Brad Stewart, and Steve Rice. Solon Coaches were Burt Morrison, Francis Brooks, and Ron Ceppatelli.

Final Record

J.V. FOOTBALL

Coached by John Smyrski and Jim Ponsetto the J.V. team had a turn-around year with six wins and three losses.

The increase in size helped out the team. There was a difference of five to ten more players over last year.

The team got off to a great start with five straight wins but had a tough ending with only one win out of four. Of the three games lost they were never further behind than two touchdowns. Having five shutouts showed the strength of the Solon defense. To top off the season they beat Spaulding, the last game of the year, 14 to nothing.

FIELD HOCKEY

Despite being low in numbers because of injury or illness, the girls varsity field hockey team had a memorable season ending with a 5-6-3 record. They went to the play-offs and played Bellows Falls to lose in overtime.

Both co-captains, Emily Gidney and Liz Barker were able to score their first goals this year. But while they weren't, Shannon Babcock and Michele Powell were netting the most goals for the team.

Because it was a young team, the teams should be one to watch next season. The Seniors, Katie Whitney, Emily Gidney, Liz Barker, Susanne Jordan and Patti McDermott wish the best of luck to next year's team.

Small, close-knit and fun are the first three words that come to mind when thinking about this year's varsity girls' basketball team. Mr. Crowley must again be credited for his great coaching beyond what is expected of a coach. The team finished division II quarterfinals against Burr and Burton. This year's record does not truly reflect the team's success, however there were many close games including a one point loss to the eventual division I State Champions, Essex Junction. The Solons had the talent, desire and the potential for being a state championship team. The Solons are losing four seniors, Katie Whitney, Debbie Finnigan, Liz Barker, and Michelle Perron. There will be a lot of experience returning though. Two year starter Carolann Miller, Maggie Whitney, Shannon Babcock, Shea Sweeney, and Michele Rowell will be returning to head up a strong team for next season.

The boys' basketball season proved to be a very difficult one in regard to wins and losses. However, with the positive leadership of co-captains Mike Denis and Jeff Brown the team gave some good performances and was competitive in most of the contests. Beset by many illnesses and injuries, and comprised of only three seniors, four juniors, and four sophomores the team never the less did the best they possible could under the circumstances.

X-COUNTRY SKI TEAM

The Boys and Girls Cross Country Ski Teams had pretty successful seasons. The boys were led by Marc Gilbertson with consistently strong performances, and the girls were led by Diane Brigham. Both teams had a little disadvantage against other schools because we did not start skiing until part way through the season. They both started out the season with good prospects of making it to States, but due to illnesses that struck nearly the entire boys' and girls' teams during the last two weeks of the season, neither teams nor individuals were able to qualify for States.

ALPINE SKI TEAM

The Girls Alpine Team had a successful season. They were slightly stronger in Slalom than Giant Slalom. Led by Caroline Costello, they came in first in several meets during the season. At the District Meet they out-distanced the next team by a close four points to qualify for State's.

The Boys Alpine Team was consistent throughout the season. They almost always had a racer among the top finishers. They skied well at Districts, but were not among the top six teams, and thus did not qualify for State's.

VARSITY HOCKEY

Coach Brooke Pearson and Captains Chris Magnan, Bill Marcellus, and Brad Stewart were looking forward to another fine season when hockey began in November. However, the Skating Solons won only three games, tied two games and lost fifteen. Five games did go into overtime, and eight games were lost by one goal.

While playing strong defensive hockey, the Solons were unable to put the puck in the net as often as they wanted with a young promising offense.

Goalie Bill Heney, considered the best in Division Two, was spectacular all season with 858 saves. Fans, and even rivals, could only shake their head in amazement and disbelief over Bill's performances.

The Skating Solons played a very exciting game against arch-rival U-32 on January 8th. The final score was Raiders 6, Solons 5. The lead changed hands five times with neither team being ahead by more than one goal. Mike Canas, Dan Hill, Chris Magnan, and Brad Stewart all scored for MHS. Bill Heney had 41 saves!

Another great game was February 1 at Hartford. The Hurricanes had lost only once in the last four years on their own ice. MHS held Hartford to only two goals. Hartford knew that they had played a hockey game. Heney had 77 saves!!

Coach Pearson continued his outstanding coaching and became a great friend to the members of the team. The graduating Seniors, Chris Magnan, Bill Marcellus, Brad Stewart, Bob Browning, Dave Dwyer, Steve Rice, Student Coach Kevin Miller, and Manager Julie Rouelle will miss him, and their team in many ways.

GYMNASTICS

Did they win?

Another gymnastics season has come to an end. Our record may show losses but we have improved very much this year.

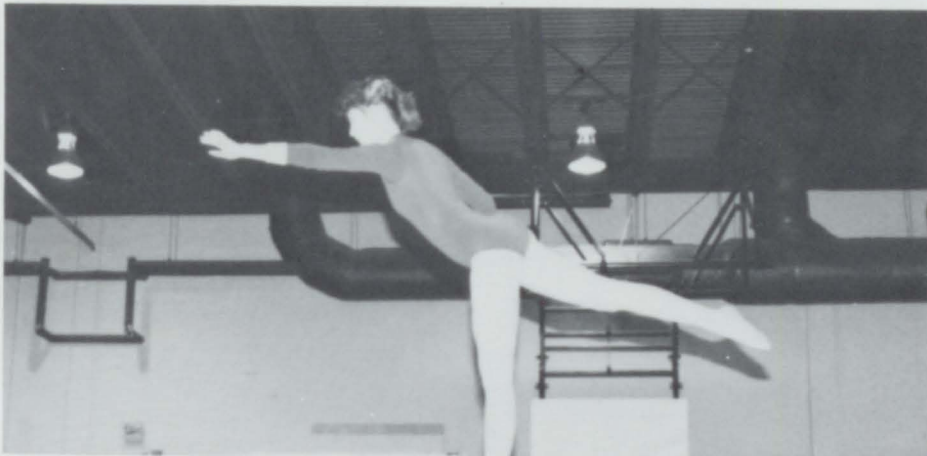

We had a very young team this year, with only one senior (who we will miss very much) and two juniors. But we are looking forward to some up coming gymnasts in the following years.

The team itself did not qualify for States but a few individuals made it. Sophomore Naomi Leeds qualified on vault, Adri Phillips in the all-around, Holly Buttura also on vault, and Jo D Valz was an alternate on vault.

Throughout the season each gymnast grew closer to one another to form a real team. We worked very well together and everyone was always there for each other, cheering each other on. We are looking forward to next year.

Reach for the stars Angela Ochmanski.

TEAM SOLONS BURLINGTON TRIATHALON

Montpelier High School's first annual entry into the Burlington Triathlon was very successful. Swimmer Brad Stewart, Biker Bob McLeod and Runner Scott Flanders (replacing his brother Chuck, who was injured in a football game the day before) competed against a crowded field on Sunday, September 15, 1985, benefitting the Vermont Special Olympics.

Scott Flanders, Liz Stotler, Brad Stewart, and Bob McLeod at the cold, choppy lake.

Stewart swam the one-half mile courses in the choppy cold waters of Lake Champlain. As soon as he finished, he passed his red wrist band to McLeod, who jumped on his bike and peddled 23 miles through Burlington, South Burlington, and Shelburne. Scott Flanders, on his return to North Beach, ran a strong leg for 6.5 miles along North Avenue. The grand finish included a large, free party for the contestants and an award ceremony.

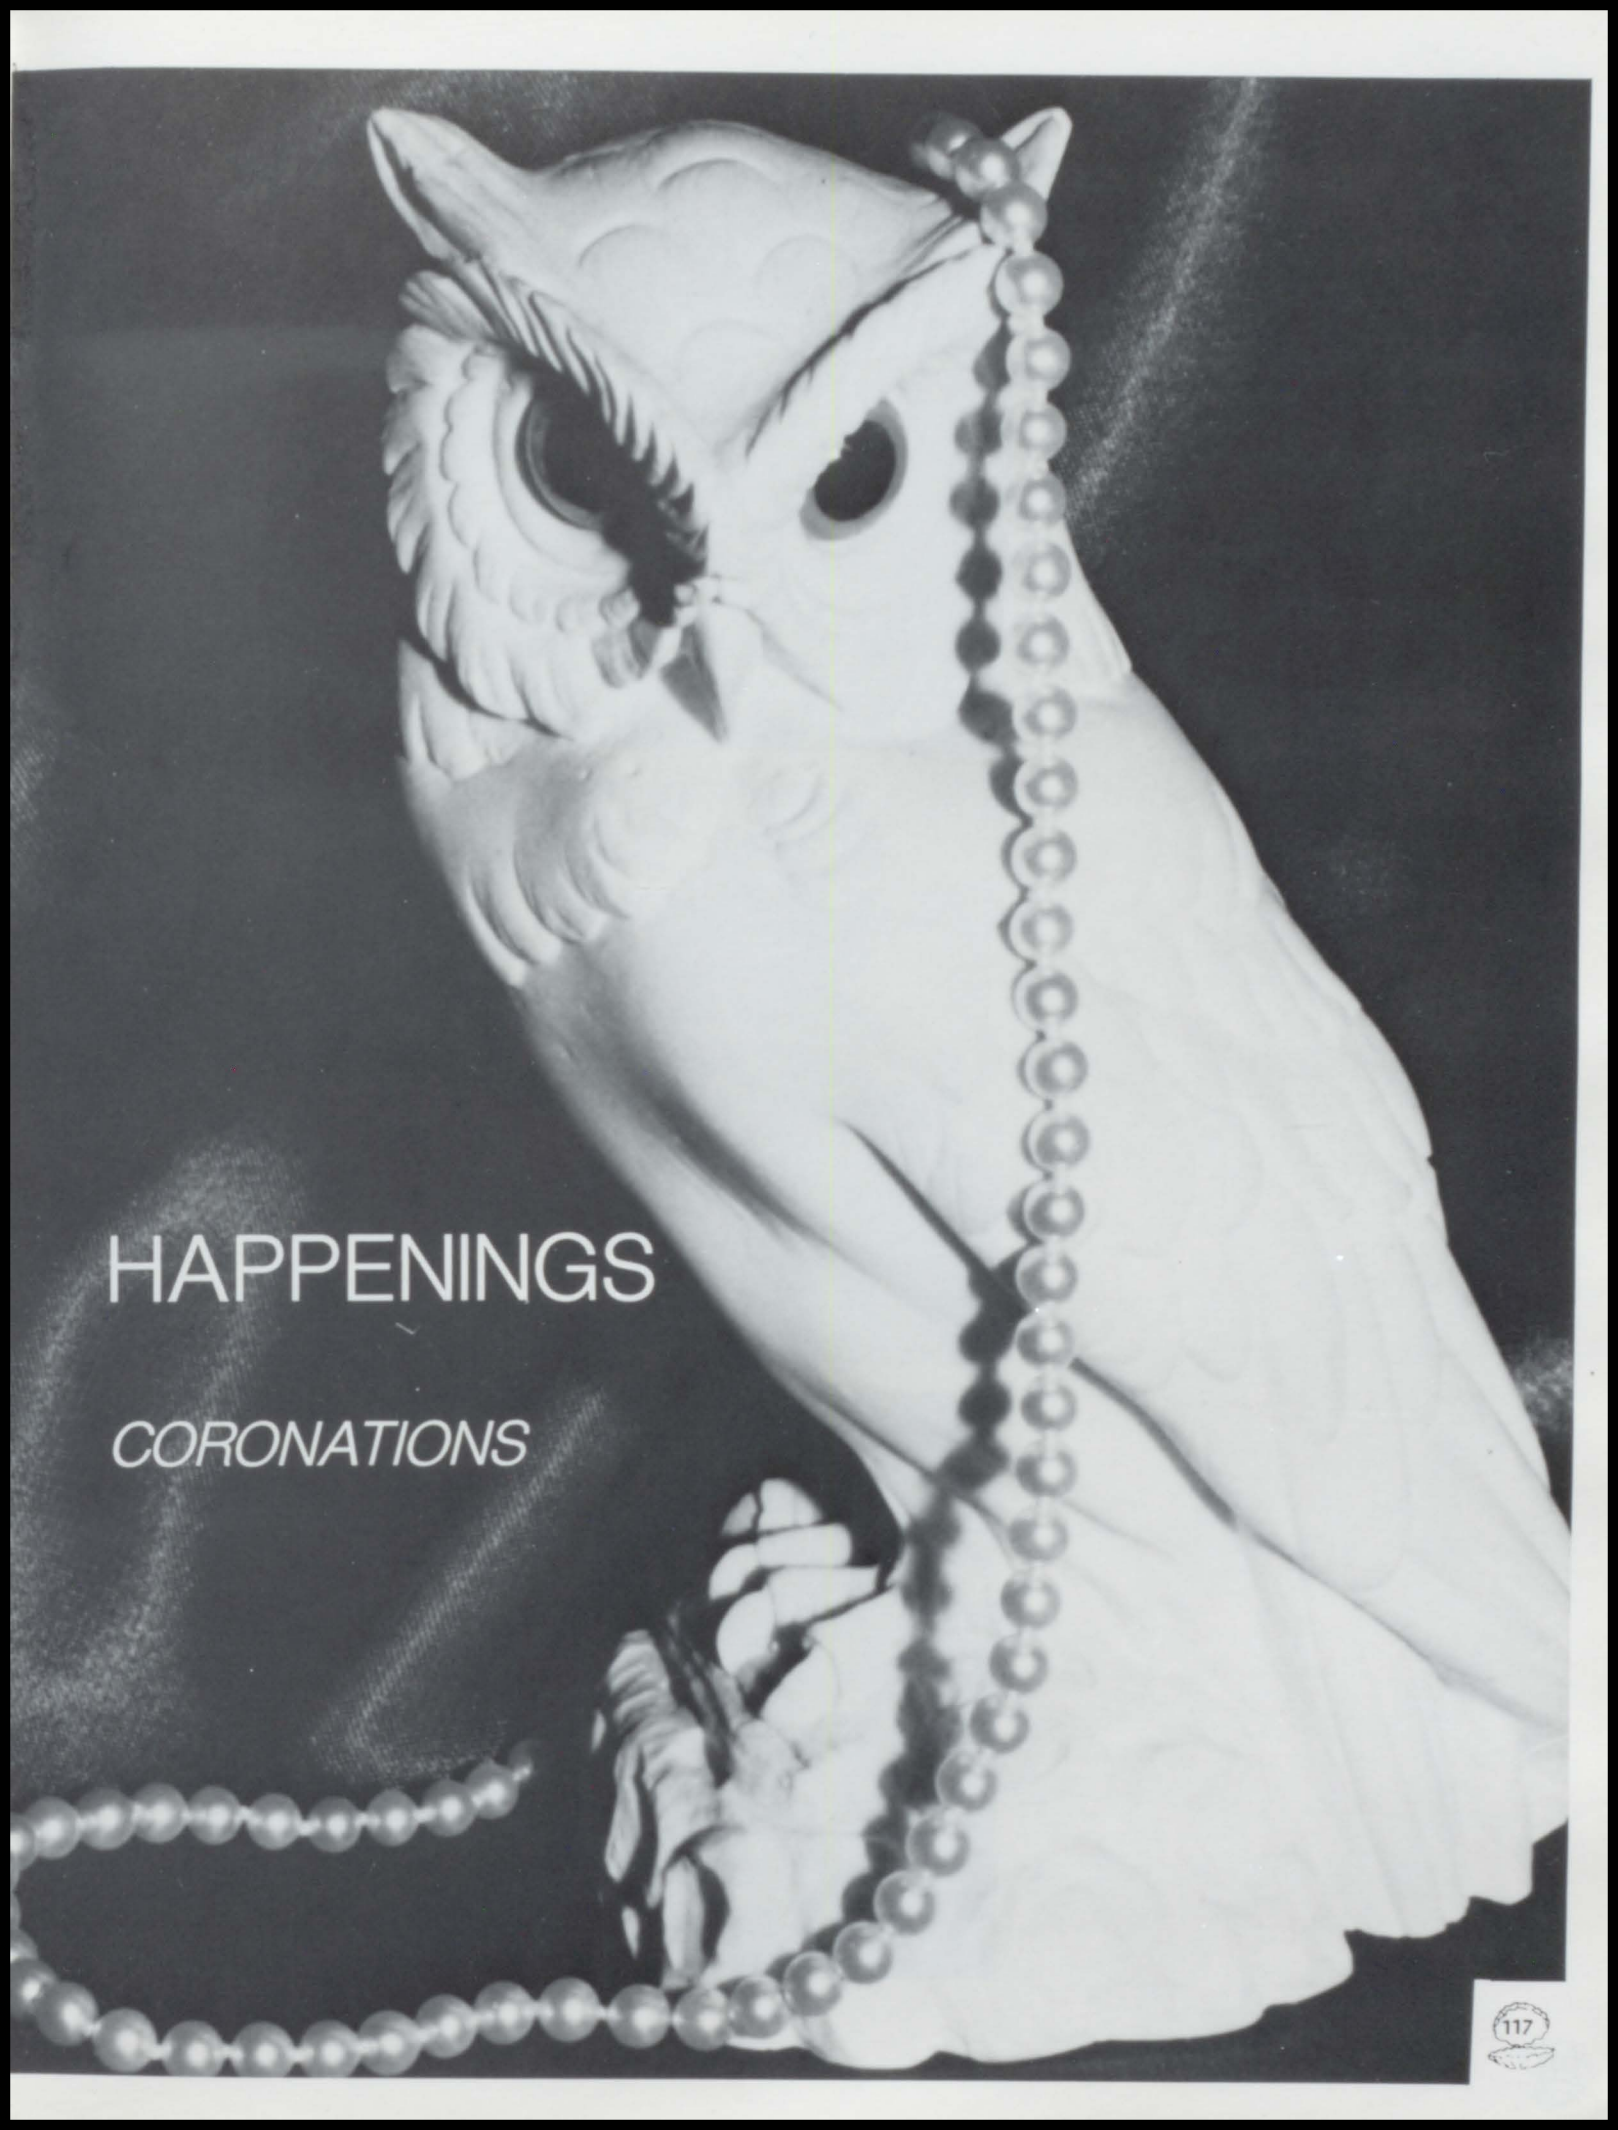

Scott running down the street like a stallion.

It was a rewarding day for them, setting goals for themselves, and having the opportunity to help those less fortunate than they. Liz Stotler, a MHS sophomore was also a swimmer for a National Life team.

IN MEMORIAM

Christa McAuliffe and the Crew of Challenger

“I cannot join the space program and restart my life as an astronaut, but this opportunity to connect my abilities as an educator with my interests in history and space is a unique opportunity to fulfill my early fantasies. I watched the Space Age being born and I would like to participate.”

— Christa McAuliffe
from her application to NASA for participation in NASA's Teacher In Space program.

Ronald McNair (1950-1986)

"True courage comes in enduring . . . persevering and believing in oneself." Already the second black man in space after his flight in Challenger in 1984, Ronald McNair wanted to do all possible for NASA, "the system that gave me so much."

McNair, who had a doctorate in physics from M.I.T., was an expert on lasers. He was Mission Specialist on the fatal flight of Challenger. He left behind two children who knew the price he was willing to pay to explore a world above and beyond his own.

Ellison Onizuka (1946-1986)

"There's no age cut-off for astronauts." A grandson of Japanese immigrants and native of Hawaii, Ellison Onizuka had been a test pilot and flight engineer with the Air Force before joining NASA as an astronaut candidate in 1978. On the Challenger flight, he was to film Halley's comet with a handheld camera.

Onizuka's dream was to continue traveling in space as long as he could. His mind had always been on the stars and in space, he would be a star among stars.

Judith Resnick (1949-1986)

"Something is only dangerous if you are not prepared for it." With perfect scores of 800 on her SATs, a bachelor's degree in engineering, Judith Resnick never stopped studying until 1978 when she began training as an astronaut with NASA. One of her personal goals was "to learn a lot about quite a number of different technologies." In 1984 on Discovery, Resnick, who was Mission Specialist, operated the spacecraft's remote control arm and performed solar-power experiments.

As Mission Specialist on the fatal Challenger flight, Resnick was to help take photographs of Halley's comet. "I want to do everything there is to be done." To such a lady, the word impossible didn't exist, and fear was unheard of.

Francis Scobee (1939-1986)

". . . (I) would give absolutely anything to experience the exhilaration of lift-off . . ."

He was the Commander on the Challenger flight. "Roger, go with throttle up," were the last words transmitted from Challenger to Houston by Scobee just three seconds before the explosion. Commander Scobee had always had a deep love for aviation. After working as a pilot in the Air Force, he entered astronaut training in 1978 and was pilot of Challenger in 1984. He always aimed high and so he flew high as well.

Michael Smith (1945-1986)

"Everybody looks at flying the shuttle as something dangerous. But it's not." A pilot for the U.S. Naval Academy, Smith entered the space program in 1980. Since childhood his eyes had wandered toward the stars. He never thought the space program as dangerous. To him, it was a challenge, and he adored challenges. On the fatal flight, Smith was proud to be a pilot. He was doing what he'd always wanted to do and for that he too paid a costly price.

"They slipped the surly bonds of Earth to touch the face of God."

These words were uttered by President Reagan in a tribute to the crew members of the space shuttle Challenger after its fatal explosion on January 28, 1986.

It was a shocking display of man's vulnerability in space as the seven crew members disappeared in an orange-and-red fireball nine miles above the Atlantic Ocean.

This particular mission, the 25th space shuttle mission, was a special one because an ordinary American, Christa McAuliffe, would be the first teacher in space. However, it was not meant to be, as McAuliffe, Judith Resnick, Francis Scobee, Ronald McNair, Michael Smith, Ellison Onizuka, and Gregory Jarvis were killed in the fiery explosion only 73 seconds after take-off. We, at the 1986 Record salute our seven brave heroes in their quest for the seven heavens. These pages are dedicated to these courageous human beings who risked their lives to open new doors leading to the future.

Gregory Jarvis (1944-1986)

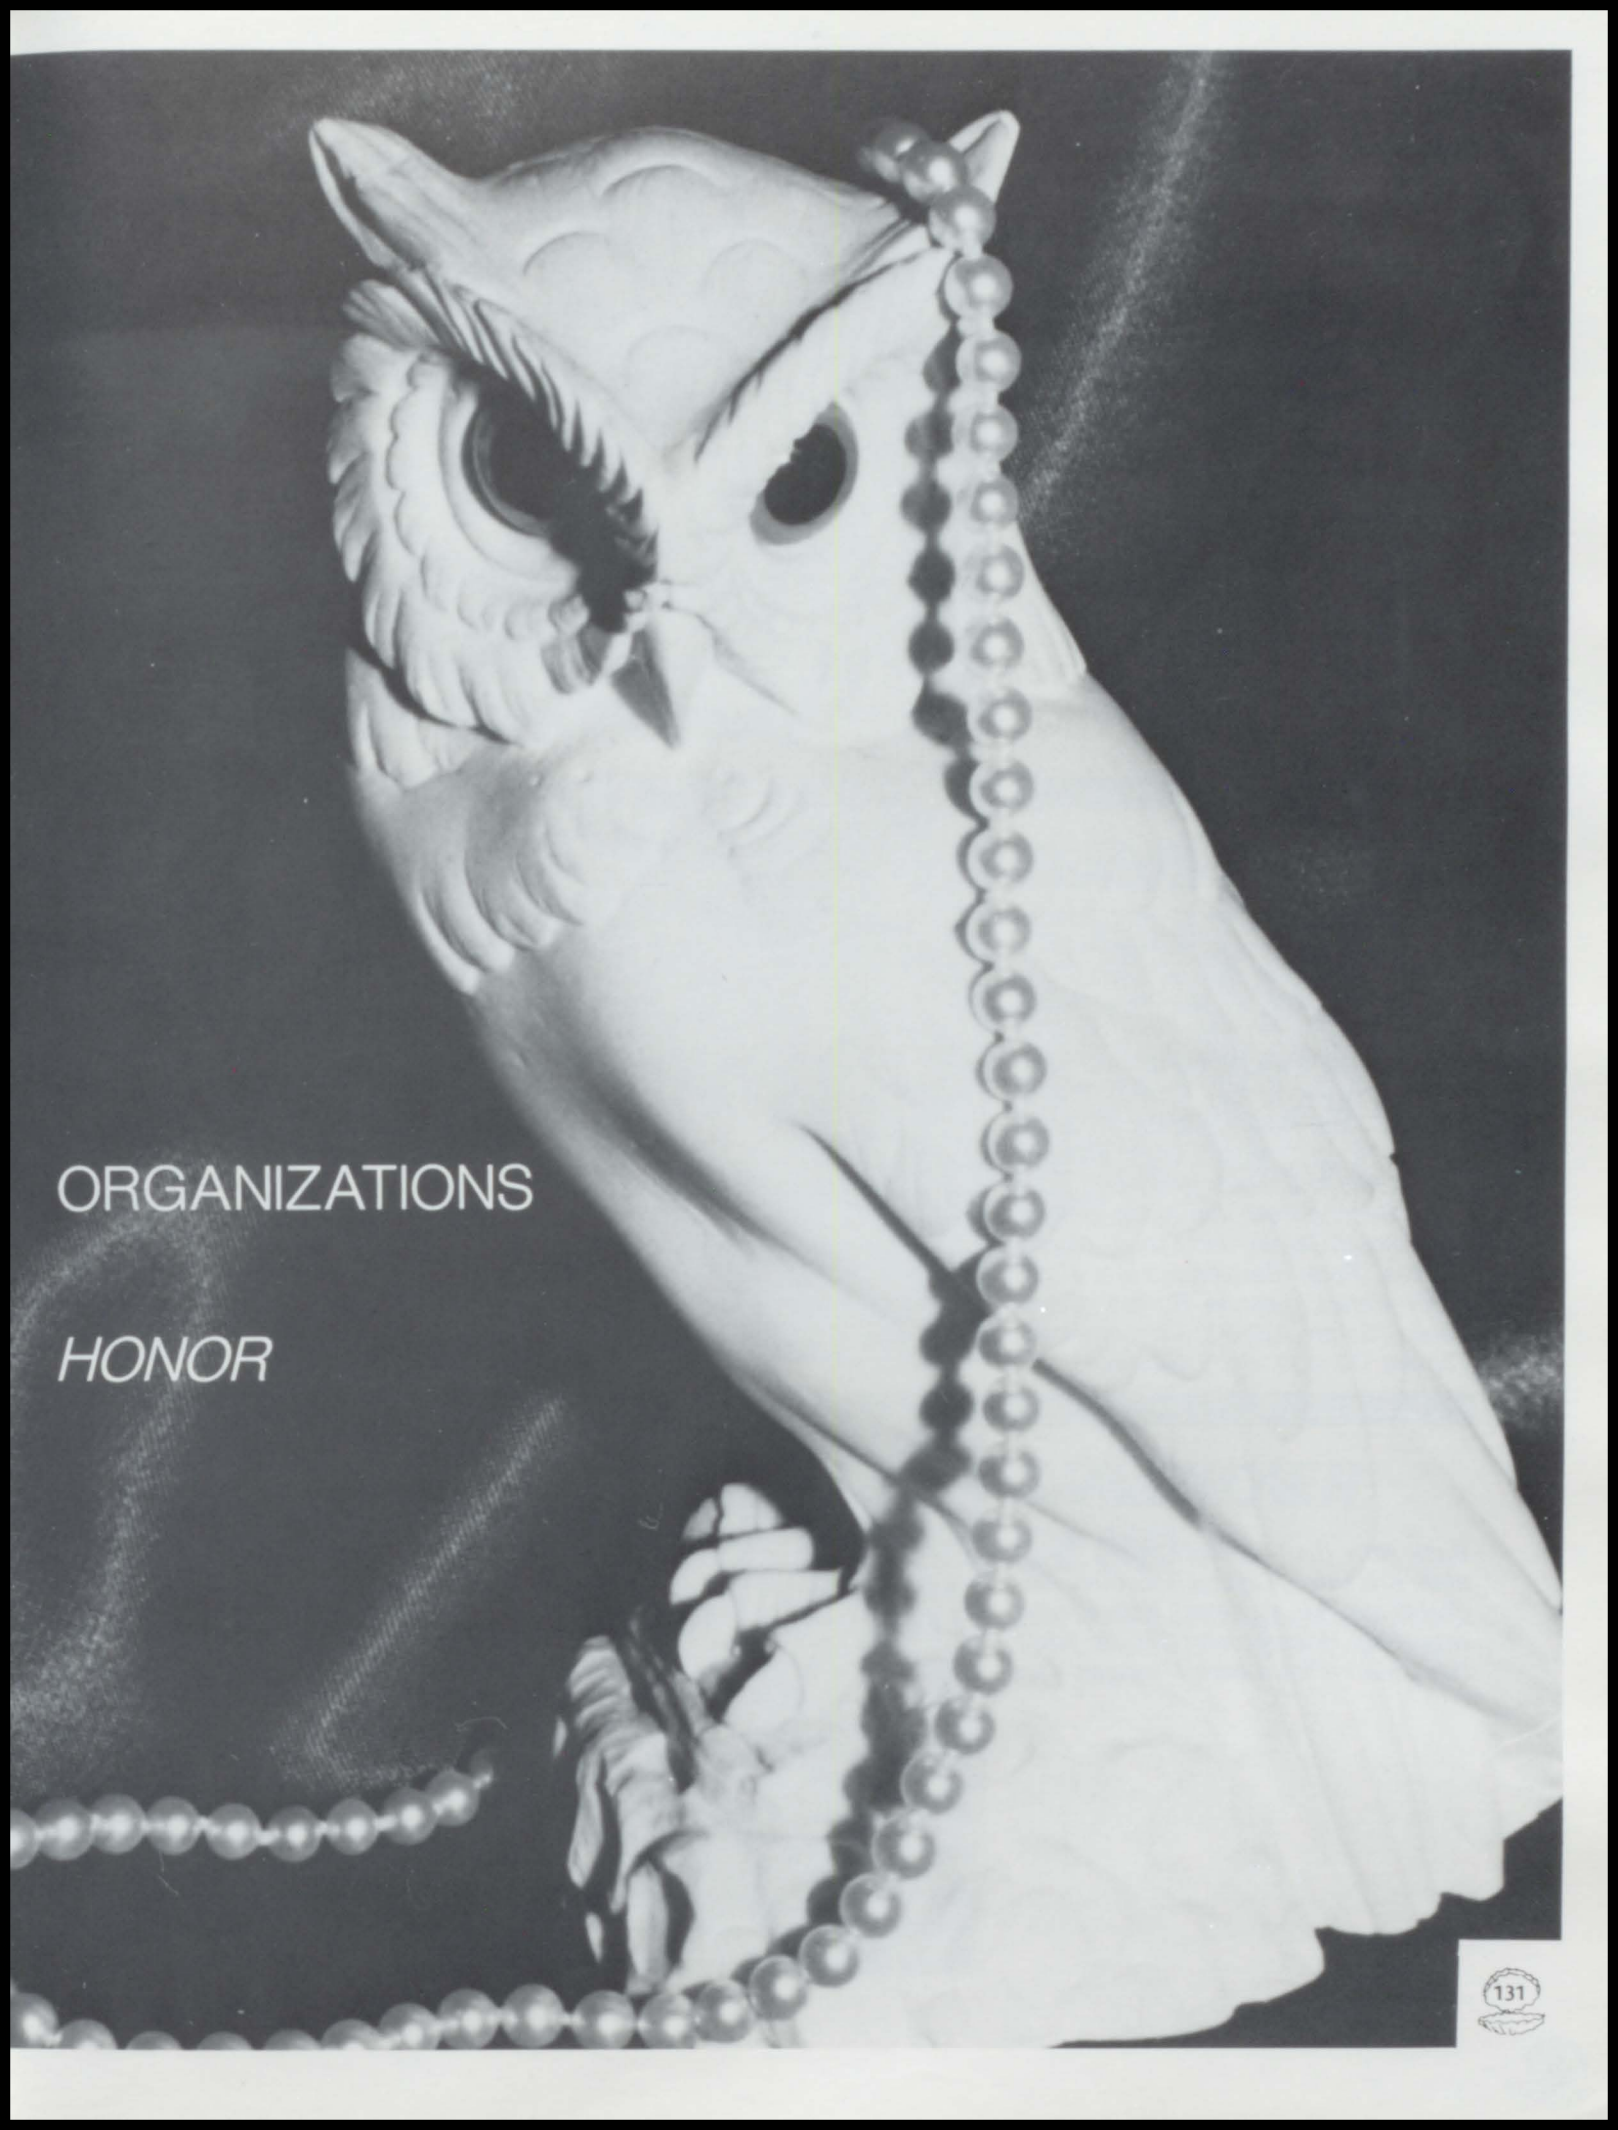

". . . I'm excited, but not nervous."

Greg Jarvis was a payload specialist on the shuttle. His job was to conduct a series of experiments to determine the effects of weightlessness on fluid contained in tanks. Jarvis appreciated the value of a good education. When he climbed aboard the shuttle he carried a flag from his alma mater, SUNY at Buffalo. He called it "a small token for the way they unlocked my future."

Christa McAuliffe (1948-1986)

"I touch the future. I teach." She was to be the first teacher in space. A wife, mother of two children, and Social Studies teacher in Concord, New Hampshire, McAuliffe was an average, and very normal American. This is why she was special. She was an average citizen out to prove to the world that anyone can fly in space. Her job in space: to teach. She was going to give a three to five minute lecture from outer space.

You are the jury. In Masque's Fall Production "Night of January 16th" held at the Montpelier Courthouse, twelve citizens from the audience were picked as the impartial jury for the complex and suspenseful murder trial of Karen Andre. It was a tough trial in which District Attorney Michael Flint (Joe Cooper) battled in an effort to prove that Karen Andre (Erin Devitt) was guilty of murdering Bjorn Faulkner (James Ruggels Greely III). Defending Ms. Andre was her lawyer Mr. Louis Stevens (Mike Marsh) who in keen efforts to prove Ms. Andre's innocence brought three very persuasive witnesses to the witness stand. Mr. Flint also brought in some very convincing witnesses making it a hard decision for the jury. Out of the three productions held Karen Andre was proven guilty only once.

MONTPELIER HIGH SCHOOL FLAG TEAM

An anniversary couldn't be a better occasion to present a gift and that's just what these dedicated girls have done. For many years, MHS has not had a flag team to mark with the marching band. Julie Mock, the present captain, moved to Vermont in June bringing with her a southern accent and many helpful hints to aid in starting the team. She, along with mounds of encouragement and support from Diane Stone, the band and choral director, organized the team and outfitted them with uniforms and equipment. Julie trained the girls and choreographed all routines performed by the team.

The flag team performs halftime shows for football and basketball games. They are a part of the band, therefore, appearing with them whenever possible. This includes parades, assemblies, concerts, and exchange performances. They performed to such songs as: "Centerfold", "Homecoming Medley", "Axel F", the school song, "Cotton King", and "Eye of the Tiger".

By presenting their talent and dedication in a way so beneficial to the school moral, these girls have given Montpelier High School the best anniversary gift ever.

The flag team prepares to perform to "Centerfold" at Spaulding High School. In her final pose of a routine to "Axel F", Julie Mock demonstrates the high chin and serious face associated with every

THE STRING OF PEARLS

Project Reach of the Washington County Youth Service Bureau under the guidance of Julie Brigham Clemons extends a helping hand to older Vermonters and people with disabilities. Several students give an hour or two a week in just visiting these people, talking to them, keeping them company or doing errands.

The group meets with Julie every Friday to hear guest speakers or plan events for their friends.

The Project Reach Community Thanksgiving Day Dinner involved many students helping with setting up, cooking, serving and cleaning. 105 meals were delivered to shut-ins and over 200 meals were served at Bethany Church on Thanksgiving Day.

A special event this year was a Valentine's Day breakfast for the senior citizens held at the Lane Shop Apartments. The students helped to plan, cook, and serve the meal and then accompanied their guest to the movie "Tootsie".

Many hours of pleasure are given each year and each year the students feel they are the ones receiving the most.

UVM WRITING CONTEST

The Vermont Honors Writing Contest was held on December 3, 1985. There were 187 participants in all. The freshman topic was: describe the three most essential elements of a perfect day. The sophomore topic: describe three changes that would be made in our school to make it better. The junior topic: describe three instances in which television, radio, and print media have affected our lives. The senior topic: give three reasons as to why Vermont is or isn't a good place to live. The judging was done by the English Department with the help of the following: Mr. Miana, Mrs. Redmond, Mr. Adamski, Mr. Ashley and Mr. Blakeman.

The first place winners advanced to the regionals on March 13. The state finals were held on May 15.

Regina Enrick, senior, and Peggy Ledoux, junior, are Montpelier High's participants in Upward Bound, a federally-funded, pre-college preparatory program at Lyndon State College. Serving fifty selected students from ten area high schools, Upward Bound emphasizes the academic skills, motivation, and self-confidence that are necessary for success in education beyond high school.

Upward Bound has two components: a program for the regular school year and a six-week residential summer program on the Lyndon State campus. During the summer component students are involved in classes in several subject areas; job assignments, and a variety of social activities and excursions.

Gina, a "Bridge" student (graduating senior), has participated in Upward Bound for three years. She plans to become a registered nurse. Peggy, now looking forward to her second summer session, is considering a teaching career.

Marilyn Fenno is the Upward Bound coordinator for MHS.

Laura Marineau, Steve Ma-

gon, Alice Robinson and Michelle Sandul have been accepted for this summer's program.

PEARLS AMONG STUDENTS

Outstanding students for the first quarter were Mike Denis and Humera Syeda.

Julie Mock and Marc Gilbertson were honored for the second quarter.

THE CLASP

We, the editors of this 1986 RECORD feel that it is the very best ever printed for MHS.

We must thank many people for their help and support. Beginning with Mr. Richard Ashley for his encouragement in trying times, Mrs. Amidon and Mrs. Marsh for the many favors, many kindnesses and most of all for their patience, Mr. Adamski, Mrs. Cassort, Ms. Austin-Hutchins, Mrs. Syed, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. Beverlee Hill, Mrs. Pam Eardensohn, and the Times Argus and David Moody, and Goodfellows Jewelers for their kindness in letting us spend hours photographing the pearls you have seen throughout this book.

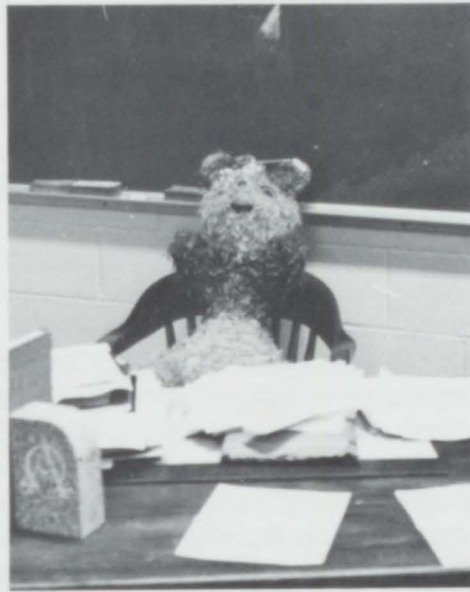

We especially would like to thank Mr. Miana, our advisor, for all the time he spent with us for being the patient and wonderful person he is. "He loves it when people heap praise upon him!"

Finally, we hope that you have enjoyed this yearbook as much as we have working on it. This was a very special yearbook not just for us but for the school as well.

JUNE 13, 2006 TWENTIETH REUNION

As the Class of 1986 graduates they will say their goodbyes and go their separate ways. But you can be sure they will meet again. Travel with us now 20 years in the future to a warm summer evening at the class reunion.

You walk to the front door and see the fruits of success as people drive up in their cars: Julie Murphy in her Porsche, Holly Buttura in her white convertible with the Swiss plates, and Katie Whitney in her Jeep.

Entering the gym, you slip on the sawdust on the floor. The band playing is the new Van Halen, hired by Bill Marcellus, who is now a VJ on MTV. You recognize the band's lead guitarist-it's Dan Menard who holds a Masters Degree in three types of engineering.

The beer is free, provided by Anheuser-Busch, of which Jamie Rathburn and Neil Fitzgerald are presidents. Brewmaster Shawn Davis is helping Randy Donald show his skill as taste tester.

Walking over to the punch bowl, you meet Brad Stewart, owner of Stewart Hockey Pucks, Inc. With him is the company's president Steve Rice and Steve's V.P. Earl Fechter. Earl is also on the board of directors at National Life. Walking back to the dance floor you see the heads of Skoda Computers. John Skoda, president and author of "Championship Cat Tossing", is talking to Tim Joslyn and Steve Rouelle, vice presidents in charge of cybernetics and artificial intelligence. Over there is their chief programmer Tracey Martin, who recently became world-famous for his game "ZORK LXVI".

Looking around you see all your old friends and classmates. Over in one corner is Scott Lovelette, chief reporter for the New York Times and author of his column "Space Number Three", covering the conference hosted by Mike Marsh, Governor of Rhode Island, for the purpose of negotiating trade agreements between Norway and Australia's trade reps Lars Syvertson and Tamara Condon. On the dance floor is Chuck Flanders, gold medalist in the '04 Olympics, where he set a world record pole vault of seven meters. Julie Rouelle, another gold medalist - in hackey sack, is discussing the past with Stacey Johnston, who recently appeared on the cover of Sports Illustrated as Horsewoman of the Year. And yet another gold medalist-Claire Poulin, who won all of the women's track and field events- is talking with Greg Bryan and Lorainne Groleau, who are back from the marine biology research sub "Ms. Silsby". Dr. Humera Syeda of the Mayo Clinic is discussing the dissection of fetal pigs in the study of swine flu with medical technician Laura Parry. Mike Denis, author of "Money-The Easy Way" is talking with 5' 3" basketball star Beth Ponsetto. Setting up the floral arrangement is Chris Utton, owner of Flowers 'r' Us. Liz Barker, now an athletic trainer, and a damn good one at that, is talking to Rich Rowell. Rich graduated from Norwich U. with a degree in engineering, then opened up seven new locations of world-famous Fowl's Gym. With them is Jeff Brown, first trumpet in the Glenn Miller Orchestra. Michelle Perron, recently elected Lt. Governor of Vermont, New Hampshire, and Maine, is chatting with Martha Austin. Her name you remember seeing before, many times. Oh yes, on the dollar bill-she's the Secretary of the Treasury. Over under the basketball hoop Roger Colombo, the new "Unknown Comic" is telling jokes to several people including Scott Robinson, who recently opened Fluffy's Botique in the soon-to-be completed Montpelier City Center. Dave Halford, Chief Petty Officer of a naval whaling boat is back on leave. Gene Fontaine, back from the California surfing championships is talking with Joe Cooper, D.A. for the state of California, who just helped Charles Manson lose his 40th attempt at parole, and Dave Dwyer, superintendent of Montpelier Public Schools. Tonja Curtis and Dave Alexander co-anchors of the Today show, are interviewing Kevin Miller, who just signed a contract as coach of the Oilers, after winning three medals in olympic hockey. Beautician Rachel Putvain, who graduated from Kelly Washburne's beauty school, is with L.A.P.D. officer Kelley Brockway, who is discussing the crime rate with Cheryl Rogers and Michelle Rochette, co-owners of a beauty salon/health spa. Claudia Baren, accountant for Castra Nostra Co. is discussing music with music engineer Lori Triplett. Pschyologist Angela Tyler is leaning against the wall, studying the behavior patterns of Jamaican beach bum Emily Gidney. Stasi Asbell, retired manager of the Grateful Dead, is discussing photography and pizza with Brian Burdett, who was recently voted political caricaturist of the year by Time Magaine. Time, by the way, is now published by Kara Miller, who learned the trade by working on the Record. Pediatric nurses Regina Emirk and Betty Gabaree are talking with Tony Salerno. Tony was arrested for accidentally running over several teachers. He was pardoned by Montpelier mayor Dan Nelson. Well, by now everyone has arrived and the place is really jumping. I suppose you are wondering what everyone else has done in the last twenty years. Well . . .

Lorna Garland has become a CPA and works for the town of Berlin. Lori-anne Christie is an off-broadway dancer. Bob Browning retired from the New England Patriots and went on to coach the Montpelier Solons to five straight state championships. Bob Mcleod has become a political assassin for the CIA. Jim Paul is the head of an interstellar highway building crew. Fiona MacDonald owns the Too Small Shirt Shop. Shane Cooke has dedicated his life to the study of the mating of the boll weevil. Joel Nardo has taken over Hugh Heffner's post. Thuy Ngyuen has solved world hunger by discovering a way to convert sand to wheat. Eugene Robinson is the head of a central American dictatorship. Dave Cody has bought the world's entire oil supply and moved to the Middle East. Gayle Buckley runs a factory to produce coupling devices for manual word processer/correction systems (you know-the little metal thing that holds the eraser to the pencil). Chris Magnan investigates people who rip off the tags underneath chairs. Todd Eardensohn recently finished a suceesful year as the best golfer in the PGA Tour. Kris Koolkin stars on General Hospital as a dancer who marries a doctor from Stanford. Diane White runs a granite company in Barre. Judy Blakeman runs the Montpelier Rec Department. Klas Lorefors is now the King of Sweden. Cyndy Bashara, Merri Lipman, and Allison Thurston own and operate Fabulous Fashions for the Elite. Their business manager is Jo-Ellen Coates. Delene Choske is the owner of Choske's Fast Burgers. Amy Carpenter now owns MGM studios, and her newest star actress is Jenni Rogers. Ken Yearman is the Commisioner of Environmental Conservation-his secretary is Debbie Finnigan. Cindy Lewis is the first woman to become National Enquirer's managing editor. Karen Hickory and Patti McDermott own Mary-Kay Cosmetics. Helena Granberg is taking a break from her road tour with Willie Nelson. Stacey Gibson is Dean of Harvard. One of her colleagues is Bob Higgins. Therese Shannon now owns Levi Strauss Co. Wendi Ward is manager of The Exotic Traveler. Teresa Segale is the owner and coach of the first professional softball team. Susanne Jordan is a time management expert. Polly Freeman is four star general Rory Welch's personal bodyguard.

The night ends and once again the Class of '86 must part. Until the next reunion . . .

ANNIVERSARY OF THE PEARL

JANUARY 16, 1986

Smiles radiate from the crowd of alumni as they make their way through Montpelier.

The first class to graduate from MHS proudly displays their graduating year.

Almost 50 MHS alumni gathered in front of Main Street School on January 1986 to reenact the march from the old to the new in 1956. Thirty years ago, these same men and women, then high schools students, gathered to march from their old high school to the new one they would soon attend. This is the 30th anniversary of the building of Montpelier High School. The parade, led by presently enrolled seniors carrying the U.S. flags, continued down Main Street and finally onto Bailey Avenue where MHS now stands. As the parade approached the school, the alumni broke into a hearty rendition of the school song. Everyone was welcomed into the library lobby for refreshments and addresses by the Principal and the Superintendent of Schools. Later on, a film was shown of the breaking of the ground and raising of the building. The school was open for tours and faculty and administration volunteered to guide and answer individual questions. The small amount of rain that fell on the parade and the surprisingly deep puddles the group threaded in and out of during their march had absolutely no dampening effect at all on the reception and reunion. Many other alumni as well as the class of 1956 had a chance to be together having fun and reminiscing.

Carolyn Silsby, MHS science department, welcomes the group.

Chairman of the anniversary celebration, Alan Blakeman, passes out nametags.

Our own George Brown feels right at home in his driver's education instruction vehicle as the parade pulls into the driveway of the school.

John Corskie is recognized by Alan Blakeman and presented with a certificate of appreciation along with a Solon stocking cap.

Representative Francis K. Brooks and Superintendent Edwin H. Jacobs exchange views during refreshments.

In the library, a film of the building of Montpelier High School brings back many memories.

This page is dedicated to the man who is responsible for this year's RECORD, for without him, there would be no yearbook. This is for Mr. Miana.

Mr. Miana has been at MHS since 1968 and has been the yearbook advisor for the past three years. He has tolerated many problems such as missed deadlines, lost pictures, and sometimes lost articles. Throughout the trauma of being our only yearbook advisor, he has been very understanding, very kind, and very patient with all of us. But most important of all, he has been our friend. We may not show it sometimes Senor Miana, but we respect you, admire you, and thank you sincerely for all that you have done for us in helping us make this yearbook the best one ever. Thank you!!
